

Ed Weinberg

President and CEO, Optum Serve Health Services

Ed Weinberg is the President and CEO of Optum Serve Health Services, a UnitedHealth Group company responsible for providing health services and proven expertise to help federal agencies tackle some of the biggest challenges in health care. Ed's organization partners with the Departments of Defense, Health and Human Services, Veterans Affairs and other organizations to modernize the U.S. health system and improve the health and well-being of the people they serve. Prior to assuming this position, Ed served as the CEO for Community Care Services. Before joining Optum in 2017, Ed served 23 years as a Medical Service Corps Officer in the United States Army.

Ed credits his foundation in leadership to his time in the Army. Career highlights include various command and staff positions as a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division and various units in Europe. Other key experiences include educating and training junior officers, serving as a legislative liaison between the Pentagon and Capitol Hill, improving senior leadership team dynamics as an organizational development facilitator, strategic communications leader for the U.S. Army Medical Command, and as the senior advisor to the 43rd Army Surgeon General, and Commanding General of US Army Medical Command.

Ed holds an MHA from Baylor University, is a RAND Arroyo Center Fellow, and has been a Fellow with the American College of Healthcare Executives (ACHE) since 2005. Ed is a combat disabled Veteran and recipient of the Purple Heart. He has been married to Melissa for 26 years and has three daughters, the eldest a newly commissioned second lieutenant in the US Army.
